Thin Children Grow Fat

on Scott's Emulsion, because fat foods make fat children. They are thin, and remain thin just in proportion to their inability to assimilate food rich in fat.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil is especially adaptable to those of weak digestion—it is partly digested already. Astonishing how quickly a thin person gains solid flesh by its use! Almost as palatable as milk.

BREVITIES.

Trib cures swellings and burns. Skates at Lange & Schmitt's cheap. Have you catarrh? Use liquid Viava.

Window glass, all sizes, at Lange & Schmitt's. Miss Stella Colcord of Carson is visiting Reno friends.

Attorney J. P. Dennis arrived last night from Carson. J. J. Thomas of Gold Hill changed cars for the west last night.

No magic about Trib, no witchcraft just a liniment; but supreme. Read the 50-cent column for a doll sale to be held at Mrs. S. Wheeler's.

F. W. Fairbanks of the Dayton Times arrived last evening, and remained over. Trib, the new liniment, is in fact good. It cures bruises and sprains.

Stores and ranges of all kinds at San Francisco prices at Lange & Schmitt's. Judge Webster took the train for San Francisco last night on professional business.

Read the 50-cent column for a lost pocket-book. A reward will be paid if returned to this office. Have you piles? Use Sano, prepared by the Viava Company. It reaches the worst cases. Try it.

Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Catt were among Sunday morning's arrivals, and remained over. The Pioche Record says: Flagg was flying at half-mast after the receipt of the news of McKinley's election.

Jerry Corecco's fine hot lunches are becoming more popular every day, and the Grande has the reputation of serving first-class goods.

A number of the prominent lady advocates of woman suffrage passed east Sunday morning. The Ber. Anna Shaw was a member of the party.

R. J. Sanders is rejoicing over an accession to the Silver ranks in the shape of a bouncing boy, who made his first appearance at his house yesterday.

J. B. Campbell, a brother of our townsman, Barney Campbell, was elected to Congress from the Twentieth District of Illinois at the late election.

Sixty Chinese from Carson have gone to Cortez to work in the mines at $25 a month. Had Bryan been elected 100 white men would be employed in the mine at $3.50 per day.

Carson had two fires on Sunday evening, and it is believed that a firebug is getting in his work. If captured he will have a short trip, and his absence will be protracted.

An old-fashioned Washoe zephyr has made matters as disagreeable as possible for the past three days. Old-timers said it made them feel like they were at home again.

A bottle of the best liniment, Trib should be in every household. Genuine Belfast and Dublin ginger ale, sassafras root and an ever running stream of pure and sparkling soda water and the best of ice cream at the New Palace Bakery.

A. Nelson will sacrifice his stock of furnishing goods in order to make room for new goods. Now is the time to get bargains. Call at his store on Virginia street. Free employment office connected with the store.

Casper Becker is arranging to supply the celebrated Peavine mineral water to quantities to suit, from a bottle to a five-gallon keg. He will furnish it in its natural state or carbonated. Leave orders at the brewery.

William Van Buren suffered a painful injury yesterday while walking on the binding pieces of a flame. He made a misstep and fell, striking his face on one of the pieces, cutting his lip badly, necessitating several stitches.

The returns show the following have been elected in Lincoln county: State Senator, J. A. Denton; Assemblyman, G. B. Whitney; Sheriff and Assessor, H. E. Freudenthal; Clerk, H. J. Goodrich; Recorder, H. W. Turner; Treasurer, N. P. Doolley; District Attorney, F. R. McNulty; Administrator, John Frank; Surveyor, W. D. Frewitt; Commissioner (long term), John Simpson.

Died in San Francisco.

Charles Gulling received a telegram from P. L. Flannigan yesterday informing him of the death of Mrs. Flannigan which occurred in San Francisco yesterday morning. Mrs. Flannigan had been ill for several months. Last summer she went to San Francisco for treatment and returned somewhat improved in health.

About three weeks ago she was again taken to San Francisco, her condition being extremely critical. Her physician decided that the only hope of saving her life was in the knife. This was resorted to at the Waldeck Hospital on Sunday and she did not survive it but a day.

Deceased was an old resident of Reno and a very estimable lady. She had many friends who deeply regret her untimely death. A devoted husband attended her faithfully during her long illness and all that medical science could do to alleviate her sufferings was done. The most noted physicians were engaged to diagnose her case and attend her during her illness, but their skill was unavailing and many friends mourn her death and extend their sympathies to her devoted husband.

The body will be brought here for interment and is expected to arrive this morning.

"FARMER" ON THE SITUATION.

He Thinks the Populists Should be Sustained.

EDITOR JOURNAL: "There should be but one party in Nevada until the silver question is settled by restoring silver to its place as a money metal and the returns show that the people are almost unanimously of that opinion. The remonetization of silver is and will be the paramount issue in National politics until the double standard is established and the Silver-Democratic party should maintain its organization until that desirable result is achieved."

I found the foregoing in your issue of September 7, in an editorial, and presume it was written while you were overjoyed at the returns received from various parts of the State.

Mr. Editor, it is possible that there may be some States in the Union that are so incorruptible that it can run the affairs of the State with one political party, but I do not think Nevada politics has reached that high standard of political purity that its affairs can be conducted, without restraint, to the Silver-Democratic party of Nevada, even if it is in such a great case as the free coinage of silver. It is my firm belief that the People's party organization in this State should be maintained and the Silver-Democratic party kept under proper restraint. Two years ago the People's party so enlarged its declaration of principles as to embrace nearly the entire Omaha platform.

And the present year, after the Populists had formulated their platform and nominated Bryan and Watson electors, the Silver party again committed political larceny and copied the Populist platform, including Government ownership of railroads and telegraph, public improvements and Government issue of legal tender, and even went so far, as to pledge their electors, under certain conditions, to vote for Tom Watson for Vice President.

The missionary work of the People's party of Nevada, for the past two years is beginning to bear fruit, and although we have not yet succeeded in electing any of our State ticket, we have converted the rank and file to Populist principles and caused the Silver party to advocate these principles with all the force at its command. We have introduced cheaper methods of campaigning in Nevada, and by the aid of the Australian ballot and the Purty of Elections law, we are enabled to maintain our State organization without impoverishing our candidates. The election just past proves that there are plenty of patriots in Nevada to sustain, by their votes, our State organization, and if the Silver-Democratic party should fall by the wayside and refuse to uphold Populist principles, we are in a position to relegate them to the rear and take charge of the affairs of State in true Populist style.

Yours very truly,

FARMER.

"TENNESSEE'S PARDNER."

An Entertaining Mining Camp Play.

The San Francisco Examiner of Tuesday, October 27, 1896, says:

The play "Tennessee's Pardner," given at the Columbia last night, is a delightful comedy drama. People like to see drama of this sort, and so the house was filled despite weather not of the best. The bill explains that the play was suggested by Bret Harte's familiar story, but aside from the employing of characters similar to those so often figuring in Harte's work the likeness is remote. The bewhiskered prospector, with an honest heart but a vague knowledge of grammar, is an important factor in "Tennessee's Pardner" and always conducts himself so as to secure approval, at least on moral grounds.

The part of Caleb Swan, a square gambler, is taken by Harry Mainhall, who has appeared here in various roles and in different companies. Geewhiller Hay, a magnificent liar and unrepentant husband of blivious tendency, is impersonated by Charles B. Hawkins, introducing the main element of comedy. Mr. Hawkins is inoffensively funny. Asa Bise, Swan's side "pard," is a rather difficult part, and Oliver Barr essays it with success. Miss Corcoran is Tennessee, and about her the interest naturally centers. She is obliged to be timorous, brave, fatherless and kittenish by turns, and throughout maintains an aspect of most undeniable innocence. Of course, the men all love her, and the gambler gets her as is proper in the mining camp play.

The Ideal Panacea.

James L. Francis, Alderman, Chicago says: "I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as an ideal panacea for coughs, colds and lung complaints, having used it in my family for the last five years, to the exclusion of physicians' prescriptions or other preparations."

Rev. John Burgess, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I have been a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years or more, and have never found any thing so beneficial, or that gave such a speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Diphtheria Cure.

The testimony of a prominent physician: FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind., June 17, 1895.

This certifies that I have been using V. O. in my practice. I have never found any medical preparation in 46 years of practice that is calculated to do so much good in so wide a range of diseases and leave no after bad effects. In Diphtheria it has proved a perfect specific in my hands, and I had rather depend on it alone in that dreadful disease than the whole popular Materia Medica with that left out. For sale by S. J. T. W. TAYLOR, M. D. T. P. Bradshaw, Agent.

The Nevada Stars Defeated.

The Nevada Stars were defeated by the Tuffe-Lyons at San Francisco last Sunday by a score of 14 to 3. The Nevada boys were compelled to play under difficulties from the fact that one of their best men was kept at home by sickness. A professional pitcher named Corbett was also worked on them by the opposing club. The Nevada boys feel that they were not treated fairly by the Examiner and there seems to be some foundation for their belief.

CLOTHING AN ARMY.

It Costs Great Britain Over $6,000,000 to Dress Its Soldiers.

It costs the British government $6,000,000 annually for clothing furnished its army all over the world. Each of the foreign possessions, however, has to pay back to a certain extent the amount which the uniforms of the troops stationed or sent there has cost, and this entails no end of complicated bookkeeping.

India, for instance, pays for the clothing of its own troops, and also for the uniforms of the men which England sends there. The latter item is about $675,000 annually. On the other hand, when a regiment comes home from India, that country has to be paid back the full value of the clothes they wear.

The government sells old and worn-out articles to the secondhand dealers, who, by the way, usually accumulate fortunes in a short time. The value of castoff clothes so disposed of is about $140,000 yearly. The scraps remaining after the uniforms have been cut out also bring a matter of $30,000 annually. In all the authorities receive back about $1,660,000, thus reducing the total cost of clothing the army to less than $5,000,000 a year.

The best-quality of everything is used in the manufacture of uniforms. In fact, it is said they are too good for durable wear. A huge factory in Pimlico, London, makes a large share of the furnishings, but vast quantities of foot and hand gear are bought ready-made. Boots and leggings, for example, cost $1,100,000 and headresses $250,000.

The thousands of miles of flannel, linen, calico, cloth, velvet, etc., the millions of buttons, the tons of cotton wool, the billions of yards of sewing cotton, that are made into smart tunics, tidy trousers and warm socks cost $2,425,000. The wages paid for making these up are over $8,000 a week. Some of the salaries paid for this branch are excellent for England. The inspector of clothing receives $6,000 and his assistants $2,750 apiece, and so on down the long list.

But all this vast expense is probably much less than the annual outlay that France or Germany makes for keeping its soldiers smart in appearance in times of peace. In Germany, for example, every man in the army is said to have four complete suits of military clothing. —New York Journal.

A ZOOLOGICAL DIVERSION.

An Elephant That Used to Play a Clever Trick on Visitors.

The elephant at the Jardin des Plantes at Paris used to play his visitors a trick which could not have been thought of but by an animal of much intelligence. His house opened upon an enclosure called the Elephants' park, containing a pond, in which he would lay himself under the water, concealing every part of him except the very end of his trunk—a mere speck that would hardly be noticed by a stranger to the animal's habits.

A crowd would assemble around the enclosure, and as he rose in it, would watch in expectation that he would come from the water. But while they were gazing about a capricious sprinkling of water would fall upon them, and ladies and gentlemen, with their fine bonnets and coats, would run for shelter under the trees, looking up at the clear sky and wondering whence such a shower could come.

Immediately afterward, however, they would see the elephant rising slowly from his bath, evincing, as it seemed, an awkward joy at the trick that he had played. In the course of time his amusement became generally known, and the moment the water began to rise from his trunk the spectators would take flight, at which he appeared exceedingly delighted, getting up as fast as he could to see the bustle he had caused. —Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., Sun, writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1. Get a bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Sales Talk

With Hood's Sarsaparilla, "Sales Talk," and show that this medicine has enjoyed public confidence and patronage to a greater extent than any other proprietary medicine. This is because it possesses greater medicinal merit and produces greater cures than any other. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells.

Tells the Story.

All advertisements of Hood's Sarsaparilla, like Hood's Sarsaparilla itself, are honest. We have never deceived the public, and this with its superlative medicinal merit, is why the people have abiding confidence in it, and buy Hood's Sarsaparilla almost to the exclusion of all others.

Customers Want Hood's.

"We order Hood's Sarsaparilla in large quantities and it is the only blood purifier which a druggist can buy in large quantities without risk. It is selling very rapidly and customers who buy it once are sure to call for Hood's the next time. We believe Hood's Sarsaparilla must possess true merit in order to retain its popularity. Its sales exceed all similar preparations and its praises are often heard." L. SOMMER & SON, Springfield, Illinois. Thousands of druggists say the same.

EMPEROR OF ELBA.

HOW NAPOLEON CONDUCTED HIM-SELF DURING EXILE.

The Powers Which Swayed the Larger World Shown to Good Advantage in His Pygmy Kingdom—The Darker Side of a Brilliant Career.

Elba was an island divided against itself, there being both imperialists and royalists among its inhabitants and a considerable party which desired independence. By representing that Napoleon had brought with him fabulous sums the Austrian and English commissioners easily won the Elbaus to a forvor of loyalty for their new emperor.
Before nightfall of the 4th the court was established, and the new administration began its labors. Having mastered the resources and needs of his pygmy realm, the emperor began to deploy all his powers, mending the highways, fortifying the strategic points and creating about the nucleus of 400 guards which were sent from Fontainebleau an efficient little army of 1,000 men. His expenses were regulated to the minutest detail both at home and abroad. The salt works and iron mines, which were the bulwarks of Elban prosperity, began at once to increase their output, and taxation was regulated with scrupulous nicety. By that supereminence of the French bürger, good management, the island was made almost independent of the remnants of the Tuileries treasure (about 5,000,000 francs) which Napoleon had brought from France. The same powers which had swayed a world operated with equal success in a sphere almost microscopic by comparison.

Before long the Princess Borghese, separated soon after her marriage from her second husband and banished since 1810 from Paris for impertinent conduct to the empress, came, according to promise, to be her brother's companion, and Madame Mere, though distant in prosperity, came likewise to soothe her son in adversity. The intercepted letters of the former prove her to have been at least as loose in her life at Elba as ever before; but they do not afford a sufficient basis for the scandals concerning her relations with Napoleon which were founded upon them and industriously circulated at the court of Louis XVIII.
The shameful charge has no adequate foundation of any sort.

Napoleon's economies were rendered not merely expedient, but imperative by the fact that none of the money from France was forthcoming which had been promised in his treaty with the powers. After a short stay Koller frankly stated that, in his opinion, it would never be paid and departed. The island swarmed with Bourbon spies, and the only conversation in which Napoleon could indulge himself unguard-edly was with Sir Neil Campbell, the English representative, or with the tit-tled English gentlemen who gratified their curiosity by visiting him. During the summer months, when the court was encamped on the heights at Marciana for refreshment, there appeared a mysterious lady with her child. Both were well received and kindly treated, but they withdrew themselves entirely from the public gaze. Common rumor said it was the empress, but this was not true.
It was the Countess Walewska, with the son she had borne to her host, whom she still adored. They remained but a few days and departed as mysteriously as they had come.

Base females thronged the precincts of the imperial residence, openly struggling for Napoleon's favor as they had so far never dared to do. Success too frequently attended their efforts. But the one woman who should have been at his side was absent. It is certain that she made an honest effort to come, and apartments were prepared for her reception in the little palace at Porto Fer-rajo. Her father, however, thwarted her at every turn, and finally she was a virtual prisoner at Solonbrunn.

So manifest was the restraint that her grandmother, Caroline, queen of the two Sicilies, cried out in indignation.
"If I were in the place of Maria Louisa, I would tie the sheets of my bed to the window frame and die." Committed to the charge of the elegant and subtle Neipperg, a favorite chamberlain, when she had first seen at Dresden, he plied her with such insidious wiles that at last her slender moral fiber was entirely broken down and she fell a victim to his charms. As late as August Napoleon received impassioned letters from her.
Then she grew formal and cold. At last, under Metternich's urgency, she ceased to write at all. Her French attendant, Meneval, managed to convey the whole sad story to her husband, but the emperor was incredulous and hoped against hope until December. Then only he ceased from his incessant and urgent appeals.—"Life of Napoleon; the Exile and His Return," by Professor W.
M. Sloane, in Century.

Went One Better.

A tradesman in Sunderland had a lad in his employ. The lad's mother was a widow in bad circumstances; consequently the lad was poorly clad. The tradesman kindly proffered to get the boy a new suit of clothes, and the boy agreed to repay him at sixteen pence per week out of his wages.

The first Monday after this arrangement had been made the lad did not come to work as usual, and on his employer sending to inquire the reason the mother said, "He looked so respectable she was trying to get him a better job."

The Selfish Person.

The great pity of the selfish person is not that he robs others of pleasure or comfort, but that he is so thoroughly unhappy himself. The selfish person is never satisfied, never content. When he has greedily taken all, he still wants more, while the unselfish person finds real happiness in giving to others the little he has. From a purely selfish point of view the unselfish person is the happier.

A CASE OF TELEPATHY.

One Lady Appeared in a Vision at the Time of Her Death.

A gentleman took a house in Ireland for six months and was accompanied thither by his wife and daughter. The house was furnished and had plenty of bedrooms. Therefore it was decided not to use a certain large, long room with onboards along one side (which had always been looked and sealed up with tape) in which things belonging to the owners of the house had been put away. One evening one of the daughters, going to her room, saw an old lady wrapped in a shawl walking along the passage in front of her. The old lady appeared to know her way and hurried on without hesitation into the unused room. The girl called her sister, and they followed the dame into the room. But all was silent. No one was there. The dust lying about showed no signs of footprints.

Shortly after the same young lady was reading on the hearth rug by firelight. Looking up, she beheld the old lady standing in the doorway watching her. Greatly frightened, she sprang up, and, rushing down stairs, was found fainting at the drawing room door. At last the family returned to Dublin. One day when a friend was calling the curious incident which I have narrated was referred to. The young lady very unwillingly told her experiences. The visitor seemed much struck and asked for an accurate description of the old lady.
"For," said she, "that house belonged to two old ladies, sisters, and when they let their house they went to reside at Geneva. One of them, answering exactly to the description you have given, died at the time you saw her appear."

The Grecian Portrait.

The Grecian portrait seems the perfection of the human type to us, and artists copy it, although it is actually rare. In it the line of the nose is more or less perfectly the prolongation of the line of the forehead. The hollow at the root of the nose is almost effaced, and the prominence of the nose is softened.
The absolute Grecian profile would therefore be represented in a drawing by a single continuous line for the forehead and nose. Yet another condition is essential for obtaining the fine Grecian profile. The forehead should not be receding. This marks the distinction between the Grecian and the Egyptian profile. —Popular Science Monthly.

Strategy in the Street Car.

Snobly—I had to give up my seat in the car to an Irish woman today, ye know.

Cobly—Howbible! How was that?

Snobly—She remarked to a friend that she didn't expect a seat, because all the fellows in the car were hard-working men. I couldn't stand the imputation, ye know. —Philadelphia North American.
